G 8

A law has been passed that requires high school students to pass exit tests before they graduate from high school. Unfortunately, I agree with rather for a total of 3 extraordinary reasons. First, exit test tell us the certain amount of education for certain ^{job}. Second, some students might want to know what have they learned and what they need to ~~to~~ learn. And last, maybe the students can make an outstanding grade that help them get a scholarship.

My first reason was, because exit test tell us the certain amount of education for certain jobs. Say for instance, you found a job you like before graduate but you need your diploma before you get the job, and there is a certain piece of literature, or history, you have to know. Don't you want to know this before you lie.

Score Point: 2

This response is considered flawed. A low degree of proficiency in persuasive writing skills is reflected. The writer's position in favor of requiring exit tests is clear. Three key ideas are given to support this position, and some organization is evident. Although the writer begins to develop the first idea, further development of the remaining ideas would be required for a higher score. Additionally, there are serious errors in writing conventions.
